The annual State Legislative Summit day draws participants from throughout Silicon Valley to make a united effort on behalf of the region. Business representatives travel to Sacramento to lobby on critical California business climate issues such as job creation and retention policies, transportation, health care and education.

The Silicon Valley is in competition with other regions throughout the state for scarce resource funds. A strong business presence in the State Capitol from leaders throughout the region who can advocate for the region's needs sends a powerful message to legislators, state officials and agency staff who are key decision makers.

This event also offers participants the opportunity to make important and meaningful business connections with each other while working for the common good.
